first published in 2012 propaganda war crimes trials and international law addresses the emerging jurisprudence and international law concerning propaganda in war crimes investigations and trials the role of propaganda in the perpetration of atrocities has emerged as a central theme in the war crimes trials in the past century the nuremberg trials initially and the international criminal tribunal for the former yugoslavia and the international criminal tribunal for rwanda currently have all substantially contributed to the development of international law in this respect investigating and exploring the areas between lawful and unlawful propaganda they have dealt with specific mechanisms and consequences of the phenomenon within the perspective and framework of their international legal mandates but the cultural codes and argots through which propaganda operates have vexed international courts struggling to assign responsibility to the instigators of mass crimes as subtle but potentially fatal communications often remain undetected misinterpreted or even dismissed as entirely irrelevant with contributions from leading international scholars and legal practitioners propaganda war crimes trials and international law pursues a comparative approach to this problem providing an overview of the current state of the theory of propaganda in the social sciences exploring this theory in the legal analysis of war crimes and related proceedings and finally offering a study of the prosecution of propaganda related crimes in international law and the newly emerging jurisprudence of war crimes propaganda cases this unique volume provides a detailed analysis of australia s 300 war crimes trials of principally japanese accused conducted in the immediate aftermath of the second world war part i contains contextual essays explaining why australia established military courts to conduct these trials and thematic essays considering various legal issues in and historical perspectives on the trials part ii offers a comprehensive collection of eight location essays one each for the physical locations where the trials were held in part iii post trial issues are reviewed such as the operation of compounds for war criminals the repatriation of convicted japanese war criminals to serve the remainder of their sentences and reflections of some of those convicted on their experience of the trials in the final essay a contemporary reflection on the fairness of the trials is provided not on the basis of a twenty first century critique of contemporary minimum standards of fair trial expected in the prosecution of war crimes but by reviewing approaches taken in the trials themselves as well as from reactions to the trials by those associated with them the essays are supported by a large collection of unique historical photographs maps and statistical materials there has been no systematic and comprehensive analysis of these trials so far which has meant that they are virtually precluded from consideration as judicial precedent this volume fills that gap and offers scholars and practitioners an important and groundbreaking resource in the five decades after the nuremberg trials not one single international trial for war criminals took place until 1993 in that year a court was finally set up at the urging of aryeh neier and other high profile activists to judge and sentence war criminals from the former yugoslavia in war crimes neier argues for the creation of a permanent tribunal at the u n and shows how the continuing absence of such a tribunal is the result of paranoia on the part of governments worldwide he addresses conflicts in rwanda the former yugoslavia south africa cambodia and the occupied territories of israel this is a powerful and sure to be

towards the close of world war ii world leaders had to address the question of what to do with alleged war criminals in 1945 an international military tribunal imt was established to see that war criminals would face justice this collection of essay keith l camacho examines the u s navy s war crimes tribunal in guam between 1944 and 1949 which tried members of guam s indigenous chamorro community and japanese nationals and its role in shaping contemporary domestic and international laws regarding combatants jurisdiction and property in this sweeping definitive work historian david crowe offers an unflinching account of the long and troubled history of genocide and war crimes from ancient atrocities to more recent horrors he traces their disturbing consistency but also the heroic efforts made to break seemingly intractable patterns of violence and retribution
